A WALK WITH ME TENNESSEE COMMUNITY

As one of our state's seven Walk with Me Tennessee communities, we are proud to be committed to healthier lifestyles. You'll find that getting around Collegedale is a breeze, so grab a neighbor and start walking!

WOLFTEVER CREEK GREENWAY

There's no better place to enjoy the four seasons than with friends on the Wolftever Creek Greenway. Whether you are a walker or a runner, "The Greenway" is a three-phase paved pedestrian trail built to provide a safe path for our residents to stay fit and healthy.

Whether you walk, run or ride, The Greenway has something for you to enjoy at every turn!

COLLEGEDALE DOG PARK

We love our dogs! So much in fact, that the community came together to establish the Collegedale Dog Park. Our off-leash dog park provides a great place for our furrier residents to run, play and socialize with their neighbors. Come out and join other responsible dog owners.

THE NATURE NOOK

Located at the intersection of Tallant Road and Apison Pike is an amphitheatre situated in an urban forest setting. The amphitheatre is available to residents at no charge and is a great gathering place to experience some of our community's cultural opportunities.

IMAGINATION STATION & PAVILION

Who needs video games when your children can make their own adventures? Located behind Collegedale City Hall, this full-scale community playground features a variety of swings, see-saws and slides. Old train cars and wooden forts encourage children to explore for hours. And, our city's Pavilion is available to celebrate birthdays or special events..

IMAGINE

Imagine a place nestled between the mountains of southeast Tennessee and the hustle of a thriving economy, where gracious living occurs each and every day. Collegedale, Tennessee is a city on the move. It's a destination of choice for neighbors who want to live away from larger communities but still want access to excellent schools, premier shopping, fine dining, airports, parks, and recreation.

Collegedale is located three minutes from Amazon.com and the Volkswagen Manufacturing Facility, as well as minutes from three major interstates and the Chattanooga Metropolitan Airport. The city is home to Southern Adventist University, a top-ranking, private university with over 3,000 students. And that sweet smell in the air comes from one of the areas largest employers, McKee Food Corporation, producer of Little Debbie snack cakes.

Once you enter the Collegedale city limits, you'll immediately feel a difference. Maybe it's neighbors who've been here all of their lives or the different languages you hear from those who've just joined us. New comer. Old timer. We are a destination of choice with room for everyone. And that's something you don't have to imagine.

LEARN

VETERANS MEMORIAL PARK

Collegedale celebrates and commemorates those who have served us in the armed services. Our Veterans Memorial Park was designed to honor and thank our veterans, while incorporating educational components that are shared with students of all ages.

Tour the park and view plaques, monuments, flags, sculptures and military installations as you reflect on those that have made sacrifices on our nation's behalf.

LEAD

SOUTHERN ADVENTIST UNIVERSITY

Collegedale is privileged to be the home of one of the top private universities in the country. Established in 1892, Southern Adventist University is a liberal arts school affiliated with the Seventh-Day Adventist Church. The university is a nationally accredited institution of higher education that promotes Christian values and an ethical lifestyle.

Ranked as one of the "Best Baccalaureate Colleges" in the South in U.S. News & World Report's 2010 "America's Best Colleges" edition, Southern offers a broad range of studies to approximately 3,000 students from more than 60 countries. The university is best known for its programs in nursing, emergency medicine, commercial art and photography.

By encouraging student involvement and interaction in academics, Southern promotes a living-learning environment where all are taught to pursue truth, wellness and a life of service.
